

Amy Basche

President & General Manager, Hanford Mission Integration Solutions

Amy Basche brings more than 30 years of experience to the table as the president and general manager at Hanford Mission Integration Solutions (HMIS).

Amy has a broad scope of experience at Hanford in a variety of areas, including the past six years as the chief operations officer for HMIS and Mission Support Alliance. During this time, Amy has established a history of continuous performance leading complex projects across Hanford, overseeing a multi-disciplined team with 2,000 employees providing more than 200 unique and essential services for the Hanford Site. Amy also has held leadership roles with a focus on project integration, project controls, prime contract management, risk management and facility planning, internal and external communications, employee concerns, business services (including chief financial office, procurement and subcontracting), and the chief information office. Amy has a strong working relationship with all Hanford site contractors, which is beneficial as she leads the HMIS team in identifying integration opportunities and elevating the company's role as Hanford's site integrator and service provider.

Amy is a proven executive-level leader with strong ties and an understanding of the entire One Hanford mission. She's also an ambassador to the community in which she has lived for more than 40 years.

A graduate of Gonzaga University with a bachelor's degree in business, Amy earned a master's degree in business administration from City University.
